The Keiko's Dream Tour – Combining Music, Art, and Science

To Inspire... Educate... Create... Involve

The Keiko's Dream Tour is a unique, three-fold event that was created to engage and educate entire communities. This opportunity allows you to bring music, art, and education about the environmental issues facing marine life to a school, community event, fundraiser, etc. The tour includes something for all ages: the music of Theresa Demarest & Good Company, featuring music from the Keiko's Dream CD, a hands-on, interactive in-school art project, and an engaging movie presentation from leading members of the marine mammal industry after the concert, such as Mark Berman of The Free Willy Keiko Foundation.

THE MUSIC

A concert including the music of the Keiko's Dream Tour is comprised of the Award-Winning Jazz/Blue/Folk/Fusion original compositions and storytelling by Theresa Demarest & Good Company, culminating with the KEIKO'S DREAM story and instrumental that gives Keiko his voice and increased presence at the event.

The Musicians are selected from six members of the Theresa Demarest & Good Company roster because of their level of expertise as musicians, their reputation in the music community, their experience as educators, and their commitment to the Keiko's Dream Tour.

THE ART

Through interactive, hands-on art projects in the school, the Keiko's Dream Tour Art Awareness Project engages students in learning about current environmental issues and challenges facing marine life.

Mosaics and murals are created from educational sessions around the elements, colors and textures of nature, and what their family and friends can do every day to help the safety and health of marine animals and the environment.

THE SCIENCE

The Keiko's Dream Tour culminates in a poignant movie and ocean sciences presentation, given by Mark Berman of the Earth Island Institute, about the health of our oceans, marine mammals and Keiko, in particular.

Following the presentation is a question and answer session with Mark and other members of the project. This is a unique opportunity to talk to one of the leaders in marine life conservation!

Another stellar marine mammal presenter on the Keiko's Dream Tour Roster is Dr. Naomi Rose, the only marine mammal biologist for the Humane Society of the United States.
